COMMUNISTS STEAL FIRST DRY PARADE IN GERMANY

Real Prohibitionists Quit Line When Radical Youths and Girls Invade It Carrying Numerous Banners.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Berlin, Dec. 3.

Germany's first demonstration in favor of prohibition staged to-day was stolen by Communist youths and girls, and for the time being, the project to reform the beer drinkers of Germany has been stopped.

A handful of real foes of liquor met in Schoenburg, a residential suburb, and started to parade. But soon they found their ranks swelled by Communists, the men in knickerbockers and bare legs, sport shirts and unshaven jaws, and the girls in 1830 costumes with curls in front of the ears, whereupon the prohibitionists became indignant and went home.

The police looked on in good humor when reading such signs as "Close the perfectured are resting on their positions. These were the respective positions as they appeared to-night, with the Russians still working hard to line up the Turks, but as yet not with entire success.

The allied position, as supported by the views of the United States, to be expressed by Ambassador Child under instructions from Washington, is for complete freedom of the straits for ships of war and commerce of all nations, the straits to be demilitarized and placed under an international commission empowered to patrol them if necessary to prevent the planting of mines should an emergency arise.

The Russian position is to give the freedom of the straits only to merchant vessels. Both in times of peace and war, the use of the straits is to be for-bidden to ships of war of all classes, the sovereignty of the straits to rest with Turkey, which will have the right to fortify them. This is to be followed, Russia promises, by a plan for the disarmament of all Black Sea States, Russia included, while the great object is a stipulation that only one warship at a time be permitted in the entire waterway. The sovereignty of the straits to be absolutely conceded to Turkey, which rejects the idea of control either by a commission or by the League of Nations.

The Russians have striven hard all day to swing their supposititious allies around to their plan for absolutely closing the straits to all war ships and thus averting the British naval policy, as they see it, for the maintenance of a British Black Sea fleet to cover the oil supplies in Asia. Minor protests from Balkan States. They have pointed out that they are prepared to support the entire Turkish national pact, in return for which they expect Turkey to stand with them to the last ditch against what they are contending is nothing less than British domination of the straits and the Black Sea under the guise of international control.

But the Turks are showing some suspicion of the Russians. They seem to fear that Russia with her tremendous resources could menace them at any time with the last ditch against what they are contending is nothing less than British domination of the straits and the Black Sea under the guise of international control.

In this discussion the interesting fact stood out of the complete reversal of the historic positions of the nations as they are now lined up, for since the Crimean war it has been Russia who wanted the straits open to war ships and the Allies that compelled them to be closed, thus crippling for the last thirty years Russia's effectiveness as a naval power.

French Work on Turks. The real battle here, it was admitted by one of the highest British authorities attending the conference, is between Russia and England, with the issue turning on whether or not the Russians can line up the Turkish side. Turkey yesterday appeared to be swinging over to the Russian view, the situation has changed again to-day, which is believed to be the result of the French working very industriously on the Turks.

Despite the outburst in the French press some time ago about British control, France now has agreed completely to the British plan even if it means actual, if not theoretical, control of this golden gateway by the British, as they possess the preponderance of naval power. Naturally, this has given rise to talk about an agreement on reparations as the price of France waiving her former objections.

To-morrow's session on the straits, beginning at 11 A. M., will be marked by Teltcherin's statement regarding Russia's demands and his report against Russia's exclusion from the conference. He sent a note to-night to the president of the conference protesting against the exclusion of the Russians from all sessions except those regarding the straits.

Russia, according to the spokesman of her delegation, is making her great play before the world now for disarmament, to which it is complained Great Britain's new Black Sea designs are an absolute menace. Having already called a disarmament conference of the Balkan States Russia is prepared to call another of all the riparian Black Sea States, including Romania, to take up among other things the settlement of the Bessarabian question, but all this on condition that the straits be closed to warships.

Otherwise, the Russians say, they will have to build a fleet themselves. The trouble is that the Turks some time ago committed themselves to demilitarized straits and even to international inspection, their sole condition being proper protection for Constantinople. The Russians say that the Turkish idea of permitting only one warship at a time in the straits would mean the creation of a British fleet in the Black Sea before they could have a fleet of their own.

HUSBANDS WANTED FOR SULTAN'S WIVES

Fifteen Selected for Beauty, Youth and Figure Now Penniless.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Rafet Pasha is trying to find husbands for fifteen inmates of the former Sultan's harem, left behind when Mohamed VI. fled to Malta on a British warship. The women range in age from 17 to 35 years. All of them are penniless.

Rafet also is anxious to solve the fate of the former monarch's numerous progeny, as well as that of twenty princes and princesses of royal blood. Since the Sultan's flight the Nationalist Government has been supporting these women, in addition to 100 eunuchs and many servants. The Government now has decided that these people must shift for themselves.

Ladies of the harem who are able to find husbands will be permitted to remain in Constantinople, but the remainder of them will be sent to their homes in the interior. Most of the women are Christians and are described as "strikingly attractive."

"It ought not to be difficult to find husbands or helpmates for these women," said a palace functionary to-day. "They all were selected for their beauty, youth and figure. Most of them were gifts to the Sultan from Governors of the provinces. They have matchless complexions, dark eyes and long chestnut colored hair. All of them are very religious, faithful and affectionate."

"Since their imperial master has left them without support we must find husbands for them or they will starve. All they expect is a modest dowry. Under our law will be returned to the husband if he should desire to divorce the woman he marries."

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER STABBED WITH HATPIN

Hughes Victim of Election Row—May Come to U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 4 (Monday).—The Daily Mail's Sydney correspondent says that Premier Hughes was mobbed and stabbed with a hatpin at a turbulent election meeting at Melbourne. The police rescued him from the angry crowd. The Premier is continuing his election tour although badly shaken. Despite the diligence of the army bakeries thousands of people to-day were without bread, and the greater part of the people in the long lines waiting outside the municipal office for distribution were left empty handed. Cakes and even specially toasted breads for invalids were disposed of early in the morning.

The city and its environs were patrolled continually by police reinforced by Republican Guards, two of whom were stationed before the closed doors of each bakery. Minor disorders were reported by the police, however, on one two shops having been looted and partly destroyed by eager housewives.

Will Degrade Policemen Who Drink—in Turkey!

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Orders were issued by the Kemalists to-day forbidding all employees of the Government to indulge in alcoholic drinks on pain of dismissal and the infliction of thirty lashes. Policemen and soldiers found drinking will be degraded.

RUMANIAN ASTRONOMER DISCOVERS NEW STAR

Is of First Magnitude and in Constellation Lyra.

LONDON, Dec. 3. — The Astronomer Royal announces that the Rumanian astronomer, Zivierci, has discovered a new star of the first magnitude in right ascension 252 degrees and north of the pole a distance of 62 degrees.

According to Dr. Henry Norris Russell, professor of astronomy at Princeton University, the place of this star is in the constellation Lyra, about 10 degrees south of the bright star Vega. It is best visible in the evening twilight, just after sunset, although it will be very low.

Dr. Russell, who hailed the new star as an interesting discovery, said: "These new stars, or temporary stars as they are called, have appeared at fairly frequent intervals during the last few decades. A very bright one appeared in 1801 in the constellation Perseus, a still brighter one in constellation Aquila in 1912 and another in 1920 in Cygnus. Since 1909 there have been two or three others visible to the naked eye, although not conspicuous."

PARIS BAKERS DECIDE TO END STRIKE TO-DAY

Many Without Bread Despite Diligence of Army Cooks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Paris, Dec. 3.

The bread strike in Paris and the suburbs, which began yesterday, was short lived as the bakers decided to-day to resume work. Monday. Despite the diligence of the army bakeries thousands of people to-day were without bread, and the greater part of the people in the long lines waiting outside the municipal office for distribution were left empty handed. Cakes and even specially toasted breads for invalids were disposed of early in the morning.

The city and its environs were patrolled continually by police reinforced by Republican Guards, two of whom were stationed before the closed doors of each bakery. Minor disorders were reported by the police, however, on one two shops having been looted and partly destroyed by eager housewives.
